Bonnie Blue Maillet is the founder of Boysenblue International, a company that has built a product line centered around preventing and curing crises associated with the oil industry. Since its creation in 1979, Boysenblue’s products have reduced total well costs, solidifying their reputation in the domestic oil and gas community as well as internationally. Boysenblue addresses problems related to loss of circulation, differential sticking, torque and drag reduction, seepage loss and shale control. The success of the company has led to Maillet successfully marketing her products all over the world, including the North Sea, Indonesia, Venezuela, Trinidad, the Congo, Angola, Nigeria, Kazakhstan, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Papua New Guinea and Guatemala.

Maillet is dedicated to the advancement of women in the business community, and has been involved in many organizations that champion the success of women business owners. She is the recipient of the Women Who Mean Business Award, has been named as Outstanding Woman by the Lafayette Business Women’s Club, is part of the Gulf Coast Minority & Women Owned Business Enterprise, and is a founding member of the Women Business Enterprise Council.

The work that Maillet has done is a tremendous contribution to both the oil industry and the Lafayette community. In addition to her involvement in organizations meant to promote women in business, Maillet is also a distinguished member of Who’s Who Worldwide, a former member of the Board of Directors for the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce, recipient of the Governors’ Pacesetter Award for the State of Louisiana, and a member of the Louisiana District Export Council.
